

Road Romeo

Character Design

This illustration was part of my college assignment to design a "Roadside Romeo" character. My concept captures the quintessential charm and quirks of this archetype. The character is depicted holding a rose, dressed in a playful Romeo-style T-shirt with a heart-and-arrow motif, leaning casually against a railing, and scanning the scene for potential attention. To add authenticity and grit, I included subtle details like spit splashes on the pavement and a cigarette butt, evoking the imperfect charisma of a roadside admirer. This project allowed me to blend humor, personality, and storytelling through expressive character design.
